

I am originally from Washington State and moved to Cincinnati in the early 2000s. After graduating from The Ohio State University in 2010, I began my career at Cincinnati Children's as a clinical research coordinator in Sports Medicine studying injury prevention. While working on my Masters of Health Services Administration at Xavier University, I completed an administrative practicum with the director of Infrastructure and Operations of the medical center. In 2018, I was delighted to join DDBP as business manager to contribute from an administrative/ operations perspective to improve access to quality medical services and to advance research for children with disabilities.

I have worked closely with the UCCEDD and LEND programs over the last 2 years in a financial and grant management role. I am excited to join the LEND Core faculty and I'm very thrilled for LEND's program expansion to include health administration. I look forward to the opportunity to share my knowledge of business and research management with the first health administration trainee.

During my free time I enjoy staying active by exploring new restaurants and areas of Cincinnati, traveling to visit friends and family, going to local sporting events, and playing golf.
