Charting the LifeCourse (CtLC) Spotlight

Krushawna is a mother of five and is involved in the Autism and We support group at CCHMC. Her experience with Charting the LifeCourse has changed the way she interacts with each of her kids and reconnects her with what she has wanted for each of them all along. It has also spurred her on to offer family support in her community, map out what it might take to start a non-profit, and bring the CtLC framework and tools to her work in her local school system.

Disability Research Lab

The Disability Research Lab supports the development of researchers, students and trainees interested in the study of disability. Most of the researchers in the lab also have disabilities or identify as family members of people with disabilities. When members meet, they share updates on their individual projects and work together to make articles more accessible.

2020-2021 LEND Cohort

This LEND year looks a bit different than in the past due to COVID-19, but is going well so far. We have 24 trainees who are working hard to get the most of the program.

Council on Leadership in Advocacy (COLA)

Susan Koller, one of our CAC members, is also a member of AUCD's COLA. By participating on this council, Susan is able to share her lived experience with disability to promote leadership in her community. Her advocacy skills have been strengthened by participating in the "I Vote Because Campaign", COVID Impact Campaign and the ADA Impact Campaign. Her involvement in COLA has also exposed her to many more resources available to her and others with disabilities.
Amy Clawson, our F2F Family Support Specialist in the Cleveland area and her son Timmy were recently highlighted in livespecial.com magazine. They are featured on page 26.
